Dear Friends of Katmai,

It seems as though another year has just sped by! As I look back on 2022, the thing that stands out the most to me is the awesome dedication and commitment I've witnessed from our board, partners, and most of all, generous donors like you.

This Annual Report demonstrates the impact of your financial gifts to Katmai Conservancy as we work to conserve, protect, and support Katmai National Park and Preserve and the wildlife who call it home.

From staff salaries and tech supplies to research and community outreach, Katmai Conservancy continues to work toward providing the Park with the funding necessary to meet its growing needs.

We sincerely appreciate the incredible love shown to Katmai National Park and Preserve and Katmai Conservancy by our extraordinary supporters, let's continue working together to make 2023 Katmai's best year yet!

Thank you,

Guy Runco
Executive Director

SUPPORT FOCUS

2022 TOTAL AID TO PARK: $415,000.00

Each year Katmai Conservancy and Katmai National Park and Preserve agree to an Annual Philanthropic Work Plan, a collaborative agreement that aligns the identified needs of Katmai National Park with Katmai Conservancy's assessment of interest of their donor community in supporting those needs. The 2022 work plan, totaling over $415,000.00, mainly focused on contributing to Katmai's bear and wolf research, Park staff support, educational programs, community outreach, and other projects and initiatives centered around Brooks Camp and the Brooks River area of Katmai National Park and Preserve.

Staff Funding

Provided support for Katmai National Park Seasonal Interpretive Staff, training, and equipment

Park visitation continued its upward trend in 2022 with another record number of visitors to the Brooks Camp Visitor Center: over 16,000 bear orientations delivered, up from around 15,000 in 2021 and 14,500 in 2019. With your support, we'll continue to help Katmai National Park meet the demands of growing numbers of visitors.

Research

Funded important brown bear and wolf research within Katmai National Park and Preserve

Advances in computing and analytical techniques may now offer a way to use these aerial survey count data to analyze wildlife populations without using costly and invasive tagging or collaring techniques. Read about this research in the “highlights” section below.

Education

Supported and the equipment necessary to support the valuable explore.org bearcams and Fat Bear Week

Throughout 2022, Katmai National Park interpretive staff worked with explore.org to deliver numerous live chat programs on a variety of interesting topics related to the Park and its inhabitants. Fat Bear Week has a huge national and international reach and continues to grow every year.

FUNDING HIGHLIGHTS

KATMAI NATIONAL PARK SEASONAL INTERPRETIVE STAFF

Thanks once again to a generous grant from our friends at explore.org and the Annenberg Foundation, in 2022 we were able to fully fund nine Interpretation staff positions at Katmai National Park and Preserve. These included one GS-7 Park Ranger, seven GS-5 Park Rangers, and one GS-5 Park Guide.

Over the course of the summer seasonal Interpretation staff made thousands of visitor contacts, in which they provided information and/or education outside the Brooks Camp Visitor Center. Interpretation staff delivered bear safety orientations to incoming visitors, managed visitor safety around brown bears, and assisted visitors at the very popular Brooks Falls Platform by running a wait list and cycling visitors through their turn at the platform. Interpreters also created and delivered unique program content over the course of the summer season. In addition, Brooks Camp interpretation staff reached virtual audiences through their media contributions, including live web chats on explore.org, blogs, website content, social media posts, and NPS App content.

KATMAI CULTURE CAMP

Katmai National Park & Preserve encompasses a substantial portion of the traditional lands of the Sugpiat-Alutiiq, Yup'ik and Dena'ina, peoples. In recent years, tribal partners to Katmai have increasingly requested educational programming and activities designed to connect students to their historical and cultural roots in the park. In response, the Katmai Cultural Resources Division partnered with Gerald Kosbruk (President of the Native Village of Perryville), Edna Smith (Secretary of the Katmai Council of Descendants) and the education development group, Science and Social Studies Adventures (SASSA), to develop both a classroom-based curriculum that teaches students about the cultural history and natural resources at Katmai as well as a place-based learning experience (Culture Camp) allowing students and culture-bearers from descendant communities to visit their ancestral home and connect with their history and heritage. Katmai Conservancy is proud to be able to offer local youth a chance to connect to their ancestral homelands through our support of the Katmai Culture Camp.

COASTAL WOLF AND BEAR RESEARCH

Katmai's coastal ecosystems are experiencing increasing visitation, changing ocean conditions, and expanding commercial and industrial development that may impact species that rely on the nearshore environment. Wolves are top predators that shape their ecological community; however, we have insufficient information on how wolves utilize marine resources and how visitation may be affecting them. The Katmai Coastal Wolf Project began with three core objectives: (1) Test the implementation and success of noninvasive methods in obtaining DNA from carnivores and their prey, with a focus on foraging ecology (2) locate active wolf dens and rendezvous sites throughout the park, and (3) obtain a minimum population count of wolves living on the Katmai coast. In particular, we aim to elucidate the predator-prey relationship of coastal wolves and sea otters.

While collecting scats for the coastal wolf project across six sites this summer, bear scat was opportunistically sampled as well. Metabarcoding prey DNA in the 235 collected bear scat samples will reveal the precise species of plants, invertebrates, and vertebrates that comprise bear diets on the Katmai coast. To our knowledge, this is the first instance in which a coastal brown bear population has been DNA metabarcoded. Study outcomes include: (1) Relative seasonal importance of forage items for brown bears from June through September, and (2) Comparison of DNA amplification success between preservation methods for sample storage under remote field conditions where cold chain storage is not possible.

2022 PARTNERS

SPECIAL THANKS TO OUR INCREDIBLE PARTNER ORGANIZATIONS

Explore.Org

We couldn't do what we do without the support and generosity of the largest live nature cam network on Earth, Explore.Org. In addition to providing substantial financial assistance, this amazing organization is also responsible for the Katmai Bear Cams.

Katmai National Park & Preserve

Katmai was established in 1918 to protect the volcanically devastated region surrounding Novarupta and the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes.

Bristol Bay Native Corporation

BBNC is dedicated to responsible development, putting salmon – which has sustained their people for centuries and contributes to the economic health of Alaska – first.
